About the School

Doctoral School of Humanities UW was established in 2010 on the basis of many years of experience in educating doctoral students at the University of Warsaw. PhD students follow an interdisciplinary education program and gain knowledge, skills and competences that are the basis of their ongoing and future research work. The Doctoral School through its supervisors, supports doctoral students in the process of applying for a doctoral degree, which is the culmination of a four-year educational cycle.

As a part of the education program, doctoral students participate in specialized classes (lectures, seminars) and courses shaping their scientific workshop and methodological competences. The Doctoral School offers an interdisciplinary cooperation network, creating conditions for comprehensive scientific development.

Doctoral School of Humanities recruits in the following scientific disciplines:

- Archeology;
- Ethnology and Cultural Anthropology;
- Philosophy;
- History;
- Linguistics;
- Literary Studies;
- Culture and Religion Studies;
- Arts Studies.

About the discipline

The discipline of arts studies encompasses the study of the humanities in the fields of art history (history and theory of visual arts, architecture and urban planning, artistic crafts, modern visual media and photography, and museum studies and art writing); musicology (history and aesthetics of music, anthropology of music and ethnomusicology; instrumentology; music criticism and editing); history and theory of film and audiovisual arts; history and theory of theatre and performing arts.

A resume or CV outlining the candidate's scientific activity *

Wybierz plik Nie wybrano pliku

The resume or CV should mainly refer to the candidate's scientific publications and scientific conferences that they attended. Additional points may be awarded for other activities, including participation in training, certificates, promotion of science or activity in the academic scientific movement. The activity should relate to the last five calendar years preceding the application. If a candidate became a parent during this time, as evidenced by a scan of the child's birth certificate attached to the application, this period shall be extended by two years for each child. The scan of the child's birth should be uploaded as one file with the CV/resume.

Scans of materials evidencing scientific activity mentioned in CV or resume

Wybierz plik Nie wybrano pliku

Scientific activity that is not evidenced by scans will not be taken into consideration in the qualification proceedings. Scans of title pages confirm scientific publications. It is also possible to attach a maximum of two scans of complete texts of publications which the candidate considers the most important. Confirmation of participation in scientific conferences is provided by scans of certificates of participation issued by the conference organisers or scans of conference programmes. Scans of certificates, attestations and other relevant documents shall provide confirmation of other activities. If the documents confirming scientific activity have been issued in a language other than Polish or English, the candidate must attach their working translation to the application. All materials confirming scientific activity should be combined in one PDF file (no page limit).
